EVEN IN the case of Mr. Pauley the President appears to have been carrying out a Roosevelt policy. It was Mr. Roosevelt who made Mr Fauley Democratic treasurer; it was for Mr. Roosevelt he collected the money in 1944, and it was Mr. Roosevelt who told Secretary Forrestal that he wanted to appoint Mr Pauley Assistant Secretary of the Navy. Normally, one would think these facts would have caused these left-wing upholders of the "true liberalism" to be a little less savage in their indictment of Mr. Truman as, to some extent at least, it is an indictment of Mr. Roosevelt.

CURBING PETRILLO

It is unfortunate that condi tions should have been permitted -or, rather, encouraged in high places-to drift to the point that the Congress of the United States finds it necessary to pass a bil directed at the activities of one man. But it is refreshing that, the situation being what it is, the House has the courage to stand! up and pass, by a vote of 223 to it 43, a bill to cramp the style of James Caesar Petrillo.

The anti-Petrillo bill, more drastic than the mild Case bill passed previously, now goes to the Senate Labor Committee headed by Senator Murray of Montana, but it is doubtful whether the Montana left-winger can keep it in committee. Already there are rumblings in the Senate over his obvious attempts to pickle the Case bill in his committee.

Congress, at long last, is swinging into action. Labor racketeers have laid the nation all but prostrate, but their days are numbered.

Junior Club Women Have Banque t; To Aid Drive

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 28 - Decision to conduct the Salvation Army drive was announced at the Junior Women's Club annual banquet Monday evening.

A short business meeting followed the turkey dinner. Mrs. Carroll Molloy. Jr., president, presided and the club voted to conduct the Salvation Army drive again this year with Mary Howe and Virginia Cooper as co-chairmen.

Mrs. Greenawalt, the club's senior advisor, announced that the Village Improvement Association had elected Mrs. Fred Kohler a member of the hospital board. The president is also to serve on the board.

Miss Ruth Downey, as mistress of ceremonies, introduced the Heimbach sisters, who played the marimba, glockenspiel, auto harp, sang and gave readings.

THE BOWLES MARKET

Those who speak of the wave of pessimism as the Bowles market are mainly the same ones who called the upsurge of prices earlier this year the "Truman Inflation market.

The President's budget some weeks ago was accepted as being extremely inflationary. Its size, its reliance on further deficit-financing, and its threat of large new issues of currency left no other conclusion.

Stock prices went skyrocketing, not because of expected increase in earning capacity and hence value; not because of competitive buying on a speculative basis, but because the Truman budget threatened further loss in the value of money. When money is going down, the safe procedure is to invest it in commodities or securities; stocks are easy and quick to buy-the heavy new purchases which lifted prices were the consequence of money seeking a safe refuge from inflation.

The fact that the rapid boosts in stock prices a month ago were a reaction to Truman inflation, however, does not prove that the more recent drops were deflationarythat the OPA program is actually what Bowles claims it to be, "anti-inflationary."

With OPA promising price-advances which experts figure will mean 10 per cent higher costs at the store counters, it would be absurd to think of the plan as being either deflationary or anti-inflationary.

The reaction on the Stock Market was not a discounting of either inflation or deflation, but well-founded fear that the plan will not work at all-that reconversion will continue to be stymied, that production itself will not get into high gear, so that profits will be non-existent regardless of whether they are possible on paper or not.

Other interesting factors are playing a part. For one thing, a sharply fluctuating market indicates unrest and uneasiness throughout the nation. For another, the to place pretty fringes on the shutchanges may prove that the market itself is in an unsound ters of our soul windows. They level-"out of position," as the traders say.

There is something in this second opinion. It certainly is unmistakeable that the stock market had been portant element in the facial comdiscounting in advance, for many months, the expected position. pre-war boom. It has been obvious that with immense they give accent to the coloring even, heavy line. Do they stroke buying power widely held, and scarcities on every hand, and sparkle of the eyes. If they with a sharpened point. Then the a large-scale burst of activity in industry and commerce are thick, long and dark with upwas in order.

This boom seems so inevitable that few contemplated Jewels. that the Truman Administration either could or would find means to prevent its taking place. Now, however, with one delay of six months ending, with the OPA bark- by the use of mascara which should ing up the same old tree, and with further endless delays be put on carefully, the silky possible in the future, there are many who feel that the threads placed on the flager and stock prices are much higher than any economic prospects of maseara will make a feminin would warrant The lively ups and downs of the prices are proving another contention which economists have often madethat the so-called "controls" over the stock market of accepted as a soul-solacing prac which the New Deal has been so fond, do little or nothing to stabilize stock prices.

The drastic limitations on "selling short," which were offered as a means of "preventing violent reactions," may have had an exactly contrary effect; they may have removed one of the most important counter-balances which frequently kept the prices from soaring so high they came down with a crash, and which always served as a brake on too-speedy declines.

At any event, it seems obvious that Mr. Bowles and Mr. Truman, while they may have "sold" a percentage of the American public on their program, haven't misled
